Short Bio
Carrie Chu, MD, is an Associate Professor in the Department of Plastic Surgery at The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center, where she has practiced since 2016. As Medical Director of the Julie Kyte Center for Reconstructive Surgery, she oversees the ambulatory operations of MD Anderson's plastic and reconstructive surgery outpatient clinic. Clinically, she specializes in breast cancer reconstruction and the surgical treatment of lymphedema. She has specific expertise in microvascular autologous breast reconstruction, including non-abdominal donor-site options and secondary reconstruction following previously failed surgery. She also specializes in minimally invasive surgical techniques for harvesting vascularized lymph nodes to treat lymphedema. Dr. Chu graduated from Cornell University and Georgetown University School of Medicine. She completed residencies in general surgery and plastic surgery at Emory University, where she also earned a Master of Science degree in Clinical Research. She subsequently completed a fellowship in microvascular reconstructive surgery at MD Anderson.
