Short Bio

Dung Nguyen, MD, PharmD, is a Clinical Professor in the Division of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at Stanford University. She is the Director of Breast Reconstruction, the Director of Microsurgery and the Microsurgery Fellowship, and the Director of the Stanford Adult Plastic, Aesthetic, and Reconstructive Surgery Clinics. She graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Biochemistry and received the Herbert Young Award for Outstanding Academic Achievement from the University of California, Davis. She went on to receive a Doctor of Pharmacy degree from the University of California, San Francisco, and a medical degree from the University of California, San Diego. She completed an internship and residency in general surgery, followed by a residency in plastic and reconstructive surgery, at the University of Southern California Medical Center. She subsequently completed fellowship training in reconstructive microsurgery at Chang Gung Memorial Hospital in Taiwan.

Dr. Nguyen's primary clinical interests include breast reconstruction, complex tissue reconstruction using microsurgery and supermicrosurgery, the surgical treatment of lymphedema—including vascularized lymph node transfer and lymphaticovenous anastomosis—gender affirmation surgery, and aesthetic surgery.

In addition to her clinical work, Dr. Nguyen's research interests include lymphedema treatment and breast reconstruction. She is involved in research aimed at restoring natural-looking, sensate breasts following breast reconstruction. She is also leading efforts to establish an evidence-based clinical treatment program for lymphedema at Stanford. In addition, she enjoys volunteering on overseas medical missions.
