Short Bio
Dr. Jung-Ju Huang is a board-certified plastic surgeon and currently serves as a Professor at Chang Gung Memorial Hospital. She is a well-trained and experienced microsurgeon specializing in microsurgical breast reconstruction, gynecological reconstruction, and lymphedema surgery. Her recent work focuses on robot-assisted breast reconstruction, including implant-based and microsurgical breast reconstruction, as well as robot-assisted DIEP flap elevation. She has published 135 peer-reviewed papers and 13 book chapters in plastic surgery, microsurgical reconstructive surgery, and basic research, and she leads several research projects in the fields of tissue engineering and lymphedema-related research. Her professional achievements have earned her several awards, most notably recognition as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Women in Taiwan in 2017. In 2021, she was awarded the Fu-Chan Wei Young Microsurgeon Award by the Taiwan Society for Reconstructive Microsurgery (TSRM). Her recent collaborative work with breast surgeon Dr. Wen-Ling Kuo, titled "Microsurgical Perforator Flap Breast Reconstruction After Robotic-Assisted Mastectomy: Toward Precision Breast Cancer Surgery and Natural Recovery," earned them the National Innovation Award from the Research Center for Biotechnology and Medicine Policy in Taiwan in 2023.
