Short Bio
Dr. Terence Goh is an accredited plastic surgeon in Singapore with expertise in aesthetic and reconstructive surgery. He graduated from the National University of Singapore and completed his specialist training in plastic surgery at Singapore General Hospital. He was awarded the Health Manpower Development Plan scholarship and subsequently undertook fellowship training at Asan Medical Center in Seoul, South Korea. Dr. Goh is currently a partner at AZATACA Plastic Surgery, a specialist group practice comprising three plastic surgeons and providing comprehensive aesthetic and reconstructive care. His principal clinical interests include Asian rhinoplasty, eyelid surgery, gynaecomastia surgery, and facial aesthetic surgery. He is also actively involved in surgical education and professional exchange, with a focus on refining practical, reproducible surgical techniques and improving outcomes for Asian patients. His work reflects a continued interest in advancing aesthetic surgery through thoughtful technique, anatomical understanding, and shared clinical experience.
